LuxairGroup: Safety culture

Worldwide recognition

Captain Pascal Kremer, Manager of the Airline Safety department at Luxair Luxembourg Airlines, has received yet another award for being a reference in Airline Safety.

Safety, a priority for Luxair!

As ever, Luxair is doing its utmost to raise security standards and regulations at their highest levels, going beyond the required criteria. This approach is possible thanks to our dedicated specialized colleagues who are real assets for safety at Luxair. Passengers and pilots alike can rest assured when they fly with us.

A track record that shows his efficiency

Pascal Kremer initially trained as a Luxair Luxembourg Airlines airline pilot and is currently Safety Manager for Luxair Luxembourg Airlines. He is also Vice-Chairman of the European Advisory Committee for the Safety Foundation, Chairman of ERA's Air Safety Advisory Group and member of the Eurocontrol Safety Improvement Sub Group. He has just been awarded a prize by Mr Joe Sultana, Network Manager Directorate Director, at the Safety Forum, in front of over 250 aviation and safety professionals. His expertise is an amazing resource for Luxair, and further proof for its many clients and organizations that Luxair puts its best staff in charge of safety. This recognition is even greater, as Pascal Kremer had already been awarded a prize for excellence in 2014 for his expertise and commitment to ERA.

About the Safety Forum

The Safety Forum is organised by the Flight Safety Foundation, Eurocontrol and the European Regions Airline Association every year at the Eurocontrol headquarters. It brings together hundreds of airline and safety professionals to talk about various themes. This year's 6th edition focused on Safety Behaviour.
